12:05 PM Thermally Modified Wood: For the Love of Wood

Humans have serious relationship with wood. Trees are the lungs of the Earth, and without them we wouldn't be here. We breathe the oxygen released by trees, and trees absorb the carbon-dioxide we exhale. It makes sense why we love to design with beautiful wood.

With that love, we must be responsible. With the over-harvesting of tropical hardwoods, we seek technologies to strengthen the less-durable wood species that are responsibly grown. This course will explain how thermally-modified wood meets that challenge.
